

OKLAHOMA TODAY ADMITTED INTO SISTERHOOD OF STATES WITH THE INDIAN TERRITORY

Ceremonies of Inauguration Were Replete With Splendid Displays

Governor Haskell Criticizes Pres. Roosevelt's Administration and Standard Oil Fine.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 16.—Oklahoma, the forty-sixth State of the Union, became a reality shortly after 9 o'clock this morning when word was received that President Roosevelt had signed the statehood proclamation. Immediately upon receipt of the message, Governor Frantz and the other territory officials resigned. At 11 o'clock the inauguration ceremony of the new officials began with much ceremony. The oath of office were administered after which Governor C. N. Haskell, formerly of Ohio, reviewed the statehood fight and praised the state convention. Particular pains were taken by Haskell to criticize Roosevelt's administration as "spectacular," and Judge Landis' fine of the Standard Oil Co., was alleged to have been the cause of the present financial stringency. Haskell suggested the closing of the New York Stock Exchange as the proper remedy to bring about normal conditions.

Interesting Facts About the New State.

With the admission of Oklahoma into the Union the last of the Indian country passes away. President Andrew Jackson, on June 30, 1834, signed an act of Congress declaring that "all parts of the United States west of the Mississippi river and not within the states of Missouri and Louisiana or the territory of Arkansas, shall be considered the Indian country."

Out of the original "Indian country," in which no one could trade without a permit from the Superintendent at Washington, or one of his deputies, ten states have been carved—Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, and now Oklahoma. The final slice from the territory included in President Jackson's "Indian country" passed out of existence when President Roosevelt attached his signature to the bill joining Oklahoma and Indian Territory in one state, the forty-sixth state of the Union.

Andrew Jackson and his counselors thought that this entire region west of the Mississippi river was practically worthless as homes for white people. The people west of the river, however, had a different opinion; they had no hesitation about expressing it, and in the meantime they have proved their assertions by making and developing the states, that have become as important commonwealths as any in the Union.

Both of Oklahoma.

Oklahoma Territory is nearly 19 years old. It was born on April 22, 1889, when the first run for homes was made into the "promised land," Indian Territory, which constitutes the eastern half of the new state, has not been so fortunate in the past, having never enjoyed a territorial form of government, but today she enters statehood on an equal footing with Oklahoma Territory.

Out of a total of some 250,000 votes cast in both territories, the constitution's majority was more than 108,000. Party politics was forgotten by the rank and file, and all the people united in ratifying the instrument that was prepared by the constitutional convention.

The first governor of the forty-sixth state is Chas. N. Haskell the nominee of the Democratic party, and elected by a majority of 27,000. He carried with him the entire state ticket and the legislature, insuring the election of the two Democratic nominees for United States Senator Robert L. Owen of Muskogee, and Thomas P. Gore.

One of the governor's first acts will be to appoint these two men to the senate, until the legislature elects their successors.

The name of the new state is pronounced "Owe-klah-homa," and means "red people," from okla, meaning red, and homa, people.

lency. He has been asleep just exactly 130 days, and his physician, Dr. Wm. S. Turner is of the opinion that he is gaining in strength, as his color is getting a little better and his pulse is higher. It is thought that he suffered from meningitis while in Camp Alger during the Spanish-American war, and that this resulted in a thickening of the meningeal covering of the brain, which is causing pressure. If he rallies sufficiently to warrant an operation it will probably be performed in the near future.

The military record of Mr. Wright has been compiled by Col. Cliff Rosebough for the Advocate and is as follows:

Mertis L. Wright served in Co. G, 7th O. V. I., enlisting April 25, 1898. He was 32 years of age and his nearest friend was Jonathan Wright.

Was reported sick in quarters June 4, and had light duty on June 17. On June 20 he was sent to First Division Hospital with descriptive list, which was the last date with the company.

DIGGEST SURPLUS IN STATE'S HISTORY

Columbus, Nov. 16.—Governor Harris in his annual message will warn the General Assembly against extravagance. ## TO CONSOLIDATE CITY HOSPITAL WITH THE NEWARK SANITARIUM

If the plans of the promoters carry as they expect them to, Newark will soon have a new hospital, modern in every respect. The men interested in the new project, are all citizens of Newark, and are using every means in their power to bring the matter to a successful culmination. Their plan is to purchase the Sanitarium and the City Hospital and erect a large new building complete in every detail with the most modern and sanitary fixtures known to the medical world. They have offered $25,000 for the Sanitarium and $11,000 for the City Hospital, but their offer has not yet been accepted. As soon as further plans are made they will be published in the Advocate and the matter may be settled next week.

It is understood that 43 out of the 59 members of the Licking county medical fraternity have signified their intention of joining in the project, and furthering it to completion.

MOST REMARKABLE WRECK

In History of American Railroad Occurred When Chicago Flyer Left Rails.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Imagine a train speeding close to 70 miles an hour. In the Pullman coaches the porters are just beginning to make up the berths. In the smoker there are five passengers reading and smoking. The train sways with the momentum as it hits a curve. The tracks run along a 20 foot embankment. Out of the first curve the mogul swings into a second curve with scarcely any diminution of speed. The frost trucks leave the rails, the engine plows down the embankment; the combination baggage and smoking car follows, and it and the engine turn turtle. The four coaches following also leave the track and hurt themselves down the grade. Naturally you would expect next to hear the groans of the dying, to see the overturned coach break into flames, to see rescuers dig among the debris for mangled bodies. But, in this case you would be wrong. That is what makes the descriptions given in Chicago this morning of the wreck (Continued on Page 7, Col. 2.)

INJUNCTION GRANTED BY JUDGE SEWARD

AGAINST GLASS WORKERS WHO CAUSED TROUBLE IN MT. VERNON FRIDAY.

DEMONSTRATION AT UTICA

Made Against Officer of Glass Company Who Fired Pistol Above Heads of Crowd.

Mt. Vernon, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon there has been no new trouble in the fight between the glass workers and managers. Judge Seward granted the temporary injunction against the Amalgamated Window Glass Workers petitioned for by Mt. Vernon Window Glass company, and the papers were served by Deputy Sheriff Lewis. Two shops were started this morning in the factory, no demonstration being made against the men by the strikers.

Mt. Vernon, Nov. 16.—Most exciting scenes were enacted at the factory of the Mt. Vernon Window Glass company Friday, when the early northbound C. & C. passenger train stopped opposite the factory, and let off 33 glassworkers from Hartford City, Ind., who had come to Mt. Vernon to start the plant of the Mt. Vernon company.

It was tipped off to the officials of the Amalgamated local of this city that the men were on their way to Mt. Vernon and they would arrive on the early train.

The word was passed down the line and nearly all the members of the Amalgamated of this city were notified before 8 o'clock and a crowd of over 200 were stationed near the Wuchner plant when the train drew up.

The men left the train on the north side, and started for the factory, but immediately they were halted by the local glass workers and asked to come with the union men to their union hall, where the matter of starting the factory would be discussed. The men were promised protection and shelter and their meals. A few of the number immediately consented, but the larger number were not in favor of accompanying the glass workers and made an effort to go to the factory, but in each instance they were held and an argument put up.

Some of the men who came in Friday expressed themselves willing to return to Hartford City as soon as they learned the real facts of the situation, but the larger number wanted to go to the factory and consult with the officials of the company.

Larry Collins, who seems to be the chief leader of the men, was strongly opposed to attending the meeting. During the argument, it is claimed that Collins drew a revolver, whereupon he was dealt a blow on the head which caused a slight gash and he was pushed along the road and brought to town.

Most of those who refused to follow, feared they would receive rough treatment.

The men arrived at the hall and went into session immediately, at which time a thorough discussion of the situation was held and reports were given. Most of the men, coming from Hartford City, claimed that they were misinformed as to the real conditions existing in Mt. Vernon. It being told them that the Amalgamated had refused to work under the Columbus scale, and consequently the factories had been thrown open as "open shops," and were not opposed by the Amalgamated.

A number of wives and lady friends of the workmen of this city were present when the train arrived and entered into the arguments with the men.

The outcome of the meeting is that those who came to Mt. Vernon Friday morning returned to their homes Friday evening or Saturday morning, and they will carry back with them the conditions of affairs as they are existing, which may prevent many more from coming here to start the local factories.

DEMONSTRATION—MADE AT UTICA

AGAINST GLASS MEN

Utica, Nov. 16.—(Special)—The glass workers are grouped quietly about the streets today talking over the trouble, but no demonstration of any kind has been made against any of the officials of the factories here. It is thought there will be no more trouble.

Utica, Nov. 16.—All during Friday afternoon feeling here ran high and while there was no demonstration, (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3.)

1215—Battle of Morgarten; the Swiss defeated the Austrians.
1522—Gustavus Adolphus, the idolized king of Sweden, killed at the battle of Lutzen
after defeating the Imperial army under Wallenstein. Gustavus Adolphus was not only the most illustrious hero of Sweden, but of his time as well. He ascended the throne in his seventeenth year and at once gave proof of extraordinary abilities. He defeated the allied armies of Poland and Russia, and gained new territory for his realm. In the Thirty Years' war, his military genius was manifested in the great Field Marshal Tilly, who was killed in battle, and Wallenstein.
1895—Rev. Dr. Samuel Smith, author of "America," died in Boston; born 1808.

GOV. JOHNSON BOOM SPREADING
Governor Toole of Montana, when in Chicago a short time ago, reported that his state is for Mr. Bryan, if the Nebraska leader wants the nomination, but that "otherwise Montana is strictly and strongly for Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota." As Governor Toole is one of the most reliable, able and active Democratic leaders of the Northwest, none is better able to gauge public opinion than he is, for he knows all the people of Montana and is beloved by the Democrats, and respected by the Republicans.

ROOSEVELT AND THE SOUTH.
The compensated supporters of the President and his policies, including most of the postmasters and other small and great office holders, and some newspaper writers, now claim that he has won the heart of the South, as well as that of other sections. They seem to imagine that the Southern people, like themselves, are willing to barter away their principles for a personal largess. But they are sadly mistaken. For, while those people earnestly desire the improvement of the Mississippi and its tributaries, they have not lost their manhood yet. There may be Esaus among them, as among other peoples, but in the main, they still prize their birthright of honor too much to sell it for a mess of pottage.

VARIETIES
OF PLANTS, INSECTS AND OTHER
SPECIMENS NAMED AND
LABELLED
Will Be Sent by Department of Agricultural Extension if Carriage is Paid.

During the past two years the Department of Agricultural Extension has named hundreds of plants, insects, etc., for farmers, school children and teachers.
Specimens are sent in envelopes,
pasteboard boxes, baking powder cans,
and almost every variety of small receptacle. Specimens of soils and rocks have been sent by express in small cans and chalk boxes.
It matters not in what they come,
if you pay the postage or express to reach us, after they have been named and habits or characteristics given we shall pay the return charges if the specimen is to be returned.
Generally speaking, it is a question of "whether one cares two cents to know what his neighbor is."
The Experiment Station at Wooster, Wayne county, is doing splendid work along the line spoken of above.
It is also the desire of the Agricultural College at Columbus to make the Department of Agricultural Extension as helpful as possible to the farmer, his children, and his children's teacher.
One of the most pleasing observations has been that those who ask of this department ask about common things. After all, our attention is called least to common objects.
Thousands of our children don't know common blue grass. As soon as the blue grass is mentioned even most adults associate it with that famous region in Kentucky. A practically harmless weed—teasel—is despised because most people think it the Canada thistle. Children have been taught to be extremely fearful of the common cicada or locust, an insect never known to sting a person. Scurfy scale is often called San Jose scale. Larvae of the common lady bug have been destroyed by hundreds for no other reason than that they are ugly creatures. This little fellow is our friend, and is guilty of no destruction that brings loss to us.

TIME IS THE TEST.
The Testimony of the New People
Stand the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made,
and merit alone will stand the test of time.
Newark people appreciate merit,
and many months ago local citizens
publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills;
they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.
F. Liser, commission merchant, of 39 South Fourth street, Newark, O., says:
"I have had no occasion to use any kidney medicine since 1896, and therefore think more than ever of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me eight years ago, and I made a statement for publication at that time recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This statement I will repeat for the benefit of other sufferers from kidney troubles:
"For several years I was distressed and annoyed with pain in the back just over the kidneys, and whenever I stooped or tried to lift anything the trouble became acute. Treatment had failed to bring me relief and at last I laid aside the prescriptions I had been using and went to Crayton's drug store for a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of this remedy proved so effective that my back has been sound ever since I used Doan's Kidney Pills eight years ago. I therefore have no hesitation in recommending them to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,

States.

AXE READY
To Fall on Neck of Convict When Reprieve Came, and He Was Saved.

Dortmund, Germany, Nov. 16.—
The beheading of Kurzschutz, convicted of the murder of a mine foreman on account of a wage dispute, was stopped yesterday by a reprieve within about a quarter of a minute of the time when the ax would have fallen.
Kurzschutz had been prepared for death by priests, and was brought from his cell to the blocks in the presence of the usual official witnesses; was placed in irons, his head was on the point of being put by the ex-ecutioner's assistants on the block, and the executioner, in evening
dress, as required by the conventions of his office, was waiting to raise the ax when one of the jailers hurried into the execution hall with a telegram for the governor of the prison.
The program was interrupted, and the governor, after reading the dispatch, announced that it was an order from the superior court at Hannau to delay the execution until further notice.

The Victim of Drink
Needs Urine Treatment
Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and buries life and eventually destroys the family life.
Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family that is afflicted with this disease, you are indeed fortunate.
Drink cunningly destroys the will power and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink than he craves.
Medical treatment is necessary to destroy the craving, and this Urine will do.
It destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink will not be missed, also cures the deranged digestion, weakens nerves and other ill effects of excessive drinking, restoring the patient to perfect health.
The remedy is absolutely harmless, is thoroughly scientific and is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a re-guaranteed guarantee entitling you to a refund of your money if Urine fails to effect a cure. Treatise on "How to Cure Drunk-ness free on request, in plain sealed
wrapper. The Urine Co., Washington D.C.
Urine is in two forms, No. 1, which can be given secretly without the patient's knowledge; No. 2, in pill form for those who wish to be cured. The price of either is $1, mailed on receipt of price, in plain sealed package, and both are sold under the guarantee.
Urine is for sale by Frank D. Hall.

Fred Peters at West Salem, this county, received a telegram this week from Boston announcing Peters' death and requesting that money be sent to pay the expenses of sending the body to Ohio. His relatives had a grave dug and waited for the arrival of the body. In the meantime however, an investigation was made and it was learned that Peters is not dead, but that he had sent the telegram himself, expecting that the money would be forwarded to a confederate whose name was signed to the telegram.

WILCOX GUILTY OF DEFAUDING
Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—William guilty by a jury on the charge of defrauding the city out of $1,170 in complicity with William B. Moore, a lumber agent, by collecting money for poles which were not delivered.

Moore, who is now serving four years in the penitentiary, confessed that he and Wilcox had divided the money.
Wilcox collapsed on hearing the verdict, and his wife created a scene
in court by crying. "He's not guilty;
he's not guilty." Wilcox was released on $3,000 bond pending a motion for a new trial.

CRUEL JOKE
Upon the Head of the Coon Hunters' Union, by a Man Claiming Honorary Membership.

Since the snow ball fight that took place last summer between the members of the Coon Hunters' Union, whose headquarters is at Charles Brown's feed store on North Second street, matters have been going on smoothly, and the organization has been quite successful in securing their quota of game.
But right on the eve of the open season on account of a joke that was perpetrated by several members on the head of the organization, Mr.
Charles Brown, whose title is the "Grand Crawfish Master," the Union is torn from stem to stern with internal dissensions and the resulting friction is likely to "bust up" the hitherto fraternal society. And it was all on account of a deal in dogs.
Mr. Frank Gault, the Standard Oil man, who is an honorary member, approached Mr. Brown in that plausible manner of his, that he learned to use on prospective victims from John D., and told Mr. Brown that he knew of two beagle hounds that could be bought for $10, and that by paying a deposit of $2 down the dogs could be taken out on trial. That looked good to the Grand Master, so he went to another member of the Union, Mr. Wm. Cunningham, and proposed a partnership. Mr. Cunningham said that he was already in,
and had paid Mr. Gault his dollar, so Mr. Brown came up with his assessment, and was promised the dogs for the grand opening.
When the morning of the 15th came, Mr. Brown was ready for the slaughter, and arrived at his place of business expecting the eagles, and they were there, but were two wooden dogs.
Mr. Brown was sorely disappointed and lost his day's favorite sport;
through the joke, but swears to get even. The dollar was spent "down the line."

MAYOR OF SUNBURY Says Peruna Is a Good Medicine.

Hon. C. C. Brooks, Mayor of Sunbury, Ohio, also Attorney for Farmers' Bank and Sunbury Building and Loan Co., writes:

"I have the utmost confidence in the virtue of Peruna. It is a great medicine. I have used it and I have known many of my friends who have obtained beneficial results from its use. I cannot praise Peruna too highly."

HON. C. C. BROOKS.

HERE are a host of petty ailments which are the direct result of the weather. This is more true of the excessive heat of summer and the intense cold of winter, but partly true of all seasons of the year.

Whether it be a cold or a cough, catarrh of the head or bowel complaint, whether the liver be affected or the kidneys, the cause is very liable to be the same.

The weather slightly deranges the mucous membranes of the organs and the result is some functional disease.

Peruna has become a standby in thousands of homes for minor ailments of this sort.

GOOD HOME REMEDY

Anyone Can Prepare this mixture, Which is Said to Readily Relieve Catarrh.

The coming months will be a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers unless great care is taken to keep the feet dry, also dress warmly.

This advice should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription which any one can mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

But unless you go to the trouble to ask the druggist for the Dandelion and Sarsaparilla separately, and then buy one ounce Kargon Compound, in an original (unopened) package, plainly printed, Guaranteed No. 193 under National Drug Law, and mix the Kargon with the other ingredients at your home, you had better not use this effective prescription at all. It may be worse than useless, perhaps even harmful, and your money wasted. Under no circumstances accept the prescription already prepared, nor accept any excuse for offering it to you that way. Purchase separately the Kargon Compound, No. 10, Guarantee, as explained above, and mix these three ingredients at home yourself, or don't use at all.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood, the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lameness, bladder weaknesses and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled. As this valuable, though simple recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.

meeting will be open to all and everybody will be welcome. Let every member be present and bring a friend. Arrangements are being made for a dance on the Friday evening following Thanksgiving. Following this "The Old Maids' Convention" will be given by the lady members of the order.

The Knights and Ladies of Security meet in the Modern Woodmen hall on each Friday evening at 7:30. Everybody, whether a member or not, come to the hall next Friday evening, November 22.

FAST TRAIN

last night of the Wabash railroad's Chicago flyer No. 13, place it on the lists as probably the most remarkable wreck in the history of American railroading.
For all these things happened to that train, and there was only one person injured so badly that he could not walk about. Cots were prepared to receive the injured at St. Bernard's Hospital in Chicago, when the special bearing them from the wreck arrived today, but there was no need for them.

The wreck occurred near Five, Ind., last night. P. E. Oustin, of Potomac, New Mexico, a railroad man, one of the passengers, declares the train was going faster than 60 miles an hour. He thinks it was close to 75. Near Pine there is a double curve. As the train swung into second arm of the curve it cracked like a whip lash and left the track. It finished its flight in a corn field along the right of way.

C. C. Combs, a passenger, was the only person so injured that he could not walk about, after he had extricated himself from the smoking car. The few other passengers there and the men in the baggage end of the car were not hurt at all. There was a fire in the coach, but it did not spread. The engineman, Charles Levering, and the fireman, H. H. Howse, were slightly injured, but they would have been able to continue their run if they could have coaxed the train back from the corn field.

There had been besides the combination coach, two sleepers, a chair car and a diner. None of them turned over, but all were tilted at such an angle that they resembled a roller coaster. When it was seen that there were no dead or seriously injured, Conductor Ryan arranged the second sleeper so the passengers could return to their beds. They slept peacefully until Neson Sharpe, a brakeman, who ran all the way to the town for medical help without waiting to see whether it was needed, arrived with half the population of Pine. The villagers satisfied their curiosity and the slumber was resumed until the relief train arrived at 7 this morning.

TALKED ON TAXATION

National Conference at Columbus and Its Purpose.

A COMING ISSUE IN THIS STATE

Proposition for Constitutional Amendment and Tax Measures to Come Up Next Session of Ohio Legislature. County Local Option—Proposed Public Utilities Commission.

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—Possibly no convention ever held in the capital of Ohio was fraught with such national importance as the national conference on state and local taxation during this week.

There were present representatives from 33 states of the Union and from three provinces of Canada. Among the delegates were the expert economists of many universities, members of state tax commissions and publicists not connected with educational institutions or public offices. Among the noted attendants were four governors, Guild of Massachusetts, who presided; Dawson of West Virginia, Crawford of South Dakota and Harris of Ohio. Ex-Governor White of West Virginia was present at several sessions, and Hon. A. C. Rutherford, premier of the Canadian province of Alberta, who was complimented by being chosen for one of the vice presidents, and who presided at one session.

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

Every phase of taxation was discussed from the standpoint of every conceivable interest, the burden upon all classes of property and the devices for escaping taxation, with many recommendations for correcting this or that injustice. There were arguments presented in favor of the income tax and the Henry George theory of single tax, along with the general property, franchises and other forms of direct, indirect, general or special taxation.

One outcome of the conference was a national organization of state tax commissions and taxation officials for the mutual exchange of ideas and the promotion of uniform system of taxation throughout the Union, if such a thing be possible. And to this same end future national tax conferences will be held until something is accomplished or public interest in the matter is exhausted.

This national conference was largely promoted by Allen Ripley Foote, an Ohio publicist of national repute, who has taken an active interest in state legislation in Ohio and elsewhere for several years. It is reasonable to presume that one object sought to be obtained from such a conference was to stimulate the effort that is being made through the state board of commerce, of which Mr. Foote is commissioner, the State Grange and other bodies to revise the state constitution of Ohio in its restrictions on taxation, especially to bring about classification of property for taxation instead of the horizontal provision of the constitution for taxing all forms of property at its real value.

The state tax commission is working along this same line, and after many open sessions, at which arguments of all sorts were presented, the commission held its final open session Nov. 11. After a joint conference with the executive board of the state school association to consider some matters in relation to the school levy, the commission will begin the formulation of its report to the governor, which will be submitted to the legislature at its coming session.

This subject of taxation is going to cut quite a figure at the next session of the legislature. Besides the report of the state tax commission and resolution proposing amendment of the constitution and Senator Howe's series of bills known as Tom Johnson's taxation measures.

It is intimated that a coup is being planned to clean the calendar of the senate and house of all pending measures when the legislature reassembles by having them indefinitely postponed. This would require legislation in status quo begun over again if members of the legislature really desire to push the measures that were left unfinished at adjournment in 1906. This is said to be a counter move aimed primarily at Senator Rose's county local option bill, which is ready to be reported by the senate committee on temperance. It is doubtful if such an expedient will be resorted to in a vain effort to thwart one measure, for even after such a proceeding nothing could prevent Senator Rose or any other member reintroducing a county option bill and press it for consideration with the same facility that the pending measure might obtain. Too much valuable advantage would be lost on such a radical plan to gain delay on the Rose county option bill. The interests opposed to that measure believe they might as well let it come to an issue sooner or later and their chances for defeating it would be no stronger after such a step as overturning all the unfinished business of the last session than if they try conclusions on the Rose bill as it comes up in the regular routine.

It is said that Senator Hafner of Cincinnati will introduce and urge at the coming session a bill for a state utilities commission. Efforts will be made to shape the commission on the pattern of the New York commission, which takes the physical value of the railroad as the basis of fixing rates. The Hafner bill, it is said, will not interfere with home rule of cities in granting franchises, but will confer power on the state commission to make rates and to enforce the operation of public utilities in strict accordance with their franchise agreements. It is presumed that such a commission would supersede the present state railroad commission, and that a general utilities board would have jurisdiction over all public utilities within the state.

Whether this proposition can be put through is conjectural. There may develop some opposition to compounding the duties of a railway commission with other kinds of public service. At the same time, whether a general public utilities board is proposed or not, it is certain that an effort will be made to have created a separate commission to have control of telephone and telegraph service within the state. Neither of these public utilities is under any state supervision whatever at present. It will be made part of the purpose of such a commission to regulate rates, prevent discrimination, correct abuses, reduce causes of complaints, and particularly to compel interchange of long distance service by rival telephone companies on an equitable adjusted scale of rates.

Former State Senator L. L. H. Austin of Toledo chafes under the ruling of the supreme court of the state for revoking his license to practice law. Indirectly he lays the blame on Lawson Emerson, clerk of the supreme court at the time Austin claims to have passed the bar examination. At that point he is quoted as saying: "Emerson's failure properly to file my certificate is at the bottom of all the trouble, and his refusal to appear at the last hearing and account for this inexcusable irregularity leaves the court in doubt as to the record. Yet it does not seem, with the evidence already in the possession of the court, that I should not have had the benefit of the doubt. I feel yet that the matter will be cleared up and that I shall be disassociated from any attempt to disregard the rules and regulations of the supreme court. I believe I have been a victim of the court in order that they might secure more evidence to help their case against Emerson."

The court's ruling revoking Austin's certificate reads as follows: "In the matter of the citation to L. L. H. Austin to show why the record of his admission to the bar should not be expunged: 'It clearly appears that L. L. H. Austin did not take the examination required for admission to the bar and did not take an oath as an attorney-at-law, and, further, that the record under consideration has been falsified. Said record is therefore expunged, and the certificate of his admission is recalled and ordered to be destroyed.'"

No further amendment was made and no member of the court gave any intimation whether anything further would be done in the case. The court's findings may be sent to the prosecuting attorney of Franklin county, with a view to prosecuting Austin on the charge of falsifying a court record. In that case it would be necessary to prove that Austin was a party to the falsification, and not merely the beneficiary of it. Since the court's rulings, however, there have been no further developments.

Successful candidates for justice of the peace in the various townships of the state are writing Secretary of State Thompson for their commissions and asking that they be forwarded to them at once. But this cannot be done and in explanation Secretary Thompson sent out a circular letter to the effect that since the legislature did not extend the term of the justices of the peace to conform to the constitutional amendment adopted a year ago, there is an interval from the expiration of the terms of the present incumbents to Jan. 1, which must be filled by appointment by the township trustees.

E. D. Howard, former state senator from Franklin county and chief clerk under Secretary of State Laylin, has been appointed clerk of the state law codifying commission, vice B. F. James of Cincinnati, who was appointed to the prosecutor's office in Hamilton county. Mr. Howard was a candidate for the clerkship primarily. The position pays $1750 a year.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World

is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

"I NEVER SAW A PAIR OF CUTS SO WELL IRONED"

Accessories are all up to the standard required for an artistic presentation of the favorite old drama. The engagement is for one night only.

AUBREY STOCK COMPANY.
The Aubrey Stock company with their big metropolitan company of players will appear here all next week with usual dinky machines.

This was the opening attraction for this season at the Jefferson theater, Portland, Me., and of it the Daily News says:
"Last night's play, 'The Widow Lass,' was new to the theater goers of this city and proved an excellent bill for the opening night. The climax was plenty of snap and go. The climax was sufficient to amuse most any kind of an audience.
"All special scenery was used and every attention to detail. All the members were good, and in fact one could hardly find one weak spot. The vaudeville features were excellent and no doubt this company will play to packed houses during their engagement here."

THE FLAMING ARROW.
The romantic drama, "The Flaming Arrow," will be the attraction at the Auditorium Tuesday evening, November 19. The play is by Lincoln J. Carter and it is claimed that it is one of the truest pictures of western life that has been put on the stage. It is a touching, polished villain, a fun loving Irish corporal and his sweetheart and many other dramatic

THE LUNATIC AND THE LADY.

A curious medley of music and plot made up "The Lunatic and the Lady," at the Auditorium last night. The show, while nothing of especial merit, contained some very clever dancers, in fact made up the whole performance. Frank Christy, Gertrude Van Dyke and Jeannette Mozar could dance, and with the assistance of the chorus, they did lots of it. A clever bit of old dancing was also done by Marie Gillette. The old favorite, "East Lynne," plays at the theater this afternoon and tonight.

ORPHUM THEATRE.

The show at the Orphum this week consists of the Manola Family, five acrobats and equilibrists; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gordon, the German comedy sketch artists; Eddie Baxter, the black-face monologue man; Stith & Stith, novelty plate spinners, and the illustrated song and motion pictures.

The bill for next week is headed by those universal favorites, Manley & Sterling, in their sketch, "A Story in Slang," entitled, "Kid Nickey." The Crotty Trio, singers and dancers; Toldi Murati, from sunny Orient, a premier wire walker. The Gilmore Sisters, the western ranch girls; Mr. Ira Haines, illustrated song, and the latest motion pictures.

Tonight, at the second performance, a handsome rooker will be given away. Secure the lucky number.

INJUNCTION

yet it needed but a word of encouragement to start big trouble. Phone messages were received from Mt. Vernon telling of the trouble among glassworkers there, and when the suggestion was made that a party go to the B. & O. depot to meet the evening train to meet the officials of the Union Glass company, a big delegation quickly gathered.

On the train which pulled into the village here with O. C. Teague, President Thomas Blackstone of the glass factory here, William Nichols and Frank Abbott, directors of the company and Master Teaser Brown. The men had gone to Mt. Vernon earlier in the day, and evidently expected trouble on their arrival as one of the men was armed.

Seeing the crowd at the depot the men started up the track toward the factory, and had proceeded but a short distance when the crowd of glass workers spied them. Immediately they started in chase and had gone only a short distance when Mr. Teague, evidently expecting to be assaulted, drew a revolver and fired twice in the air. That stopped the workmen, who returned to town, but it failed to quell the feeling which ran higher than ever.

The men who had been to Mt. Vernon told of the handling of the men there, and said that while in the town they were compelled to go hungry, as no one would sell them any food. The men here are greatly excited over the affair especially as four of the five officials are union men, but the workmen class them as "scabs," saying they are trying to get the present wage scale reduced. That has caused all the trouble here and in Mt. Vernon.

Mayor Bricker was out of town last night, so the crowd went before Justice of the Peace Houser to swear out a warrant against the quintette, charging them with carrying concealed weapons. For some reason Houser refused to issue the warrant, and Constable-elect Sommers was placed on a fast freight train by the frenzied men and sent to Newark to secure a warrant in that city. Up to an early hour this morning he had not returned, and whether he has been successful or not is unknown.

This is the first demonstration of any kind that has been made, the men heretofore being perfectly quiet and peaceable. No immediate trouble is anticipated, but a spark may fire the powder at any time and the end is probably not yet.

MOTHER-IN-LAW CAUSES TROUBLE BETWEEN COUPLE

SHE IS NOW IN THE NEWARK SANITARIUM MENTALLY DERANGED

While Her Son is Refused a Divorce by Judge Brister—Other Court News.

Mrs. Leota Smith, 264 Central avenue, is confined in the Sanitarium suffering with almost a total mental collapse. Her trouble has been caused by the divorce proceedings of her daughter-in-law, Carrie Smith, and her son Herbert. She was taken to the Sanitarium last night and will undergo treatment.

The divorce case of Carrie Smith vs. Herbert Smith, was tried in the Probate court. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney J. C. Marriott and the defendant by S. L. James. The parties are young people each aged about 23 years, and they were married two years ago. The plaintiff brought her action for alimony, charging desertion and gross neglect of duty, and the defendant filed his answer and cross petition, making the same allegations against plaintiff and asking for absolute divorce. The case occupied the attention of the court all day and numerous witnesses were examined. The court, in its decision at the close of the evidence, said that he could decide the case then as well as at any other time; that the evidence showed no cause for divorce in favor of defendant, but that the whole trouble came from too much mother-in-law, the defendant insisting that his wife live with his parents, while the plaintiff only asked that her husband provide her with a separate home, as it was his duty to do. The court ordered that the defendant pay his wife $20 per month alimony, $25 attorney fees and costs of the case as long as they continue to live apart. Mr. James, the attorney for the defendant, gave notice of appeal and the bond was fixed at $200.

Creditors' Meeting.

The hearing in the divorce case of Agnes Romine vs. Minor Romine, has been continued by the Probate court to Friday, November 29, at 9 o'clock.

In Common Pleas.
The case of George W. Davidson vs. Allen Davidson, et al was tried in Common Pleas court today. The suit was brought for the partition of a farm in this county. The defendants object to the order of partition made by the commissioners, and ask the court to set the same aside for the reason that the commissioners were not, as defendants claim, judicious and disinterested freeholders of the vicinity; that two of the commissioners were guilty of collusion and were unduly influenced to make an unequal and inequitable partition of the farm, and were biased and prejudiced. And they further state in their motion that in their opinion the farm cannot be divided as was done by the commissioners without manifest injury. Owen & Carr of Mt. Vernon; Fitzgibbon, Leamon.

The court, after hearing the evidence, took the matter under advisement.

In the case of William E. Miller vs. Colonial Trust Co., the re-ort of the Special Master Commissioner, J. R. Davies, as to his conclusions of law and facts from the evidence, was found by the court to be correct, and the same was approved; the exceptions to his report as such Master Commissioner were overruled. Utica Liquor Cases.
Petitions in error in the cases of the State of Ohio against G. W. Garrison, Harry L. Reese, W. P. Kirkpatrick and V. E. Decker, have been filed in the Circuit court. The parties are residents of Utica, this county, and are charged with selling liquor illegally in that village. Judge Donahue of the Circuit court, granted an order suspending the proceedings before the mayor of Utica, which were to have been held next Friday, until the matter can be heard in the Circuit court. The judgment of the mayor in imposing a fine and costs on the defendants was approved by the Common Pleas court at the last January term.

Gifts Girls Can Make.
A spectacle cleaner made from cut leather and filled with chamomile leaves is a thoughtful gift, and any little schoolgirl could certainly manage to draw a simple conventional design on the ooze leather, afterward cutting it away with sharp scissors and lining the two rounds with a bit of pretty bright silk. The chamomile leaves are cut a wee bit smaller than the leather covers, and all are threaded on a bit of baby ribbon tied with a bow. A very nice peawiper is on the same order as the cleaner, except that the rounds are cut larger and the leaves are made of cloth, the threading together being exactly in the center instead of at one end, as in the case of the spectacle cleaner.

LOVE WILL FIND A WAY, EVEN IN THE JUNGLE

HIS NEW MITTENS--by Stephen Crane

"Horace stared with somber eyes at the plate of food."

Being a boy himself, he did not understand boys at all. He had of course the dismal conviction that they were going to dog him to his grave. But near the corner of the field they suddenly seemed to forget all about it. Indeed, they possessed only the malevolent interest of many children in a quarrel. The interest had swung capriciously to some other matter. In a moment they were off in the field again, carousing amid the snow. Some authoritative boy had probably said, "Aw, come on."

As the pursuit ceased, Horace ceased his retreat. He spent some time in what was evidently an attempt to adjust his self-respect, and then began to wander furtively down toward the group. He, too, had undergone an important change. Perhaps his sharp agony was only as durable as the malevolence of the others. In this boyish life obedience to some unformulated creed of manners was enforced with capricious, but merciless, rigor. However, they were, after all, his comrades, his friends.

They did not heed his return. They were engaged in an altercation. It had evidently been planned that this battle was between Indians and soldiers. The smaller and weaker boys had been induced to appear as Indians in the initial skirmish, but they were now very sick of it, and were reluctantly, but steadfastly, affirming their desire for a change of caste. The larger boys had all won great distinction, devastating the war to go on as planned. They explained vociferously that it was proper for the soldiers always to thrash the Indians. The little boys did not pretend to deny the truth of this argument; they confined themselves to the simple statement that, in that case, they wished to be soldiers. Each little boy willingly appealed to the others to remain Indians, but as for himself, he reiterated his desire to enlist as a soldier. The larger boys were in despair over this dearth of enthusiasm in the small Indians. They alternately wheedled and bullied, but they could not persuade the little boys, who were really suffering dreadful humiliation rather than to submit to another onslaught of soldiers. They were called all the baby names that had the power of stinging deep into their pride, but they remained firm.

Then a formidable lad, a leader of reputation, one who could whip many boys that wore long trousers, suddenly blew out his cheeks and shouted, "Well, all right then. I'll be an Indian myself. Now." The little boys greeted with cheers this addition to their wearied ranks, and seemed then content. But matters were not mended in the least, because all of the personal following of the formidable lad, with the addition of every outsider, spontaneously forsook the flag and declared themselves Indians. There were now no soldiers. The Indians had carried everything unanimously. The formidable lad used his influence, but his influence could not shake the loyalty of his friends, who refused to fight under any colors but his colors.

Plainly there was nothing for it but to coerce the little ones. The formidable lad again became a soldier, and then graciously permitted to join him all the real fighting strength of the crowd, leaving behind a most forlorn band of little Indians. Then the soldiers attacked the Indians, exhorting them to opposition at the same time.

The Indians at first adopted a policy of hurried surrender, but this had no success, as none of the surrenders were accepted. They then turned to flee, bawling out protests. The ferocious soldiers pursued them amid shouts. The battle widened, developing all manner of marvelous detail.

Horace had turned toward home several times, but as a matter of fact, this scene held him in a spell. It was fascinating beyond anything which the grown man understands. He had always in the back of his head a sense of guilt, even a sense of impending punishment for disobedience, but they could not weigh with the delirium of this snow battle.

One of the raiding soldiers, spying Horace, called out in passing, "A-fray-ed of his mit-tens!" Horace flinched at this renewal, and the other lad paused to taunt him again. Horace scooped some snow, molded it into a ball, and flung it at the other. "Ho," cried the boy, "you're an Indian, are you? Hey, fellows, here's an Indian that ain't been killed yet!" He and Horace engaged in a duel in which both were in such haste to mold snow-balls that they had little time for aiming.

Horace once struck his opponent squarely in the chest. "Hey," he shouted, "you're dead. You can't fight any more, Pete. I killed you. You're dead."

The other boy flushed red, but he continued frantically to make ammunition. "You never touched me," he retorted glowering. "You never touched me. Where, now?" he added defiantly. "Where'd you hit me?"

"On the coat! Right on your breast. You can't fight any more. You're dead."

"You never!"

"I did, too. Hey, fellows, ain't he dead? I hit 'im square."

a profoundly miserable human being.

Aunt Martha opened the door for them. Light streamed about her straight skirt. "Oh," she said, "so you found him on the road, eh? Well, I declare! It was about time!"

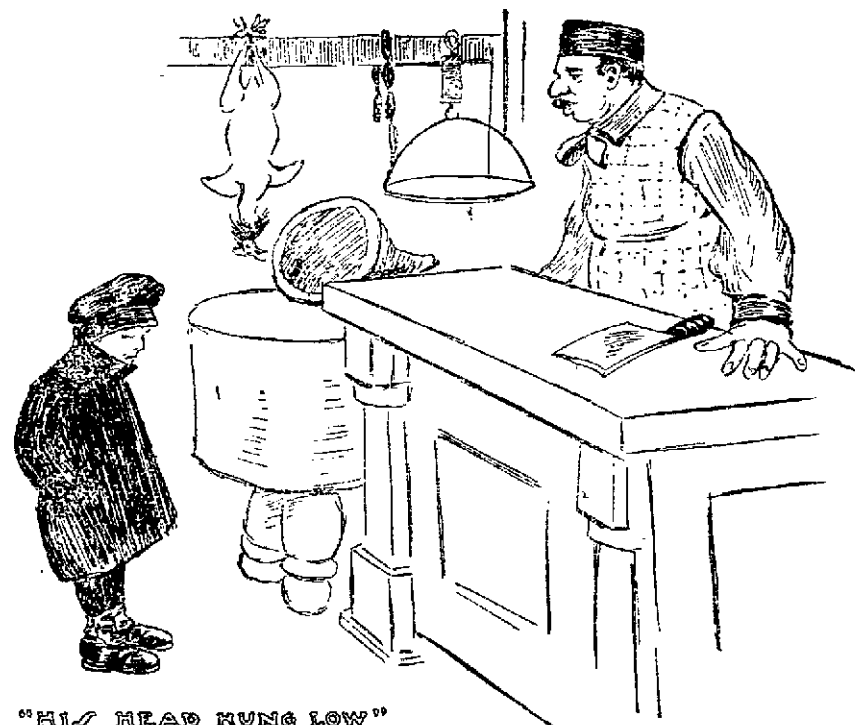

Horace slunk into the kitchen. The door, sprawling out on its four legs, was gently humming. Aunt Martha had evidently just lighted the lamp, for she went to it and began to twist the wick experimentally.

"Now," said the mother, "let's see them mittens."

Horace's chin sank. The aspiration of the criminal, the passionate desire for an asylum from retribution, from justice, was aflame in his heart. "I—I don't—don't know where they are," he gasped finally as he passed his hand over his pockets.

"Horace," intoned his mother, "you are telling me a story!"

"That's a story," he answered, just above his breath. He looked like a sheep-stealer.

"His head hung low"

Nobody had seen the affair, but some of the boys took sides in absolute accordance with their friendship for one of the concerned parties. Horace's opponent went about contending, "He never touched me. He never came near me. He never came near me."

The formidable leader now came forward and accented Horace. "What was you? An Indian? Well, then, you're dead—that's all. He hit you. I saw him."

"Me?" shrieked Horace. "He never came within a mile of me!"

At that moment he heard his name called in a certain familiar tone of two notes, with the last note shrill and prolonged. He looked toward the side-walk, and saw his mother standing there in her widow's weeds, with two brown paper parcels under her arm. A silence had fallen upon all the boys. Horace moved slowly toward his mother. She did not seem to note his approach; she was gazing austere through the naked branches of the maples where two crimson sunset bars lay on the deep blue sky.

At a distance of ten paces, Horace made a desperate venture. "Oh, ma," he whined, "can't I stay out for a while?"

"No," she answered solemnly, "you come with me." Horace knew that profile; it was the inexorable profile. But he continued to plead, because it was not beyond his mind that a great show of suffering now might diminish her suffering later.

He did not dare to look back at his playmates. It was already a public scandal that he could not stay out as late as other boys, and he could imagine his standing now that he had been again dragged off by his mother in sight of the whole world. He was

His mother held him by the arm, and began to search his pockets. Almost at once she was able to bring forth a pair of very wet mittens. "Well, I declare!" cried Aunt Martha. The two women went close to the lamp, and minutely examined the mittens, turning them over and over. Afterwards, when Horace looked up, his mother's sad-lined, homely face was turned toward him. He burst into tears. His mother drew a chair near the stove. "Just you sit there now, until I tell you to get off." He sidled meekly into the chair. His mother and his aunt went briskly about the business of preparing supper. They did not display a knowledge of his existence; they carried an effect of oblivion so far that they even did not speak to each other. Presently, they went into the dining and living room; Horace could hear the dishes rattling. His Aunt Martha brought a plate of food, placed it on a chair near him, and went away without a word.

Horace instantly decided that he would not touch a morsel of the food. He had often used this ruse in dealing with his mother. He did not know why it brought her to terms, but certainly it sometimes did.

The mother looked up when the aunt returned to the other room. "Is he eatin' his supper?" she asked.

The maiden aunt, fortified in ignorance, gazed with pity and contempt upon this interest. "Well, now, Emily, how do I know?" she queried. "Was I goin' to stand over him? Of all the worryin' you do about that child! It's a shame the way you're bringin' up that child."

"Well, he ought to eat something. It won't do for him to go without eatin'," the mother retorted weakly.

But at the gate he paused. He did not know if his journey to California would be shorter if he went down Niagara Avenue or off through Hogan Street. As the storm was very cold and the point was very important, he decided to withdraw for reflection to the wood-shed. He entered the dark shanty, and took seat upon the old chopping-block upon which he was supposed to perform for a few minutes every afternoon when he returned from school. The wind screamed and shouted at the loose boards, and there was a rift of snow on the floor to leeward of a crack.

Here the idea of starting for California on such a night departed from his mind, leaving him ruminating miserably upon his martyrdom. He saw nothing for it but to sleep all night in the wood-shed and start for California in the morning bright and early. Thinking of his bed, he kicked over the floor and found that the innumerable chips were all frozen tightly, bedded in ice.

Later he viewed with joy some signs of excitement in the house. The flare of a lamp moved rapidly from window to window. Then the kitchen door slammed loudly and a shawled figure sped toward the gate. At last he was making them feel his power. The shivering child's face was lit with saturnine glee as in the darkness of the wood-shed he gloated over the evidences of consternation in his home. The shawled figure had been his Aunt Martha dashing with the alarm to the neighbors.

The cold of the wood-shed was tormenting him. He endured only because of the terror he was causing. But then it occurred to him that, if they instituted a search for him, they would probably examine the wood-shed. He knew that it would not be manful to be caught so soon. He was not positive now that he was going to remain away forever, but at any rate he was bound to inflict some more damage before allowing himself to be captured. If he merely succeeded in making his mother angry, she would trash him on sight. He must prolong the time in order to be safe. If he held out properly, he was sure of a welcome of love, even though he should drip with crimes.

Evidently the storm had increased, for when he went out it swung him violently with its rough and merciless strength. Panting, stung, half-blinded with the driving flakes, he was now a wail, excited, friendless, and poor. With a bursting heart, he thought of his home and his mother. To his forlorn vision they were as far away as heaven.

IV. Horace was undergoing changes of feeling so rapidly that he was merely moved hither and then thither like a kite. He was now agast at the merciless ferocity of his mother. It was she who had thrust him into this wild storm, and she was perfectly indifferent to his fate, perfectly indifferent. The forlorn wanderer could no longer weep. The strong sob caught at his throat, making his breath come in short, quick snuffles. All in him was conquered save the enigmatical childish ideal of form, manner. This principle still held out, and it was the only thing between him and submission. When he surrendered, he must surrender in a way that deferred to the undefined code. He longed simply to go to the kitchen and stumble in, but his unfathomable sense of fitness forbade him.

Presently he found himself at the head of -Niagara Avenue, staring through the snow into the blazing windows of Stickney's butcher shop. Stickney was the family butcher, not so much because of a superiority to other Whilomville butchers as because he lived next door and had been an intimate friend of the father of Horace. Rows of glowing pigs hung head downward back of the tables, which bore huge pieces of red beef. Clumps of attenuated turkeys were suspended here and there. Stickney, hale and smiling, was bantering with a woman in a cloak, who, with a monster basket on her arm, was dicker for eight cents' worth of something. Horace watched them through a fro

FAMILY HOTBED for EIGHT DOLLARS

A hotbed six feet by three will cost possibly eight dollars, depending something upon the cost of labor, and whether or no manure can be had for the handling. Dig out the ground three feet deep, put in a foot of straw, leaves, or coarse litter, wet it thoroughly, and tramp it down one-half. Put in fresh stable manure likewise wet and tramped, up to the surface level. Then set a frame, a foot deep in front and eighteen inches at the back, over the bed. Spread six inches of light earth over the manure inside the frame, then bank the frame outside with more fresh manure, piling it slanting, and packing it down hard. A little earth over the manure-banks helps to keep in the heat. Put on the sash and let stand several days—until a thermometer thrust down in the earth stands a little above seventy degrees. Greater heat will scald the young seedling. After sowing things take care the bed does not get too hot. If it does, take off the sash, and dig holes here and there down to the manure so the heat may escape.

A hotbed made the first of December, and a second prepared after Christmas, will furnish a constant succession of winter greens and relishes. Sow all things very thickly; they are quickly edible, and may be thinned to advantage. Young beet-tops make a dainty dish indeed. If pulled up three weeks from the time they show above ground. Protect the sash by an earth bank three inches high all round, and in very severe weather do not open it, except for a few minutes at a time. In moderate weather give air every day, but not enough to chill the young plants. Aside from the greens and relishes, these hotbeds can provide many things for sale, if desired—fine early tomato-plants, cabbage-plants, celery-stocks. Indeed, with plenty of space, and the will and skill to care for them, hotbeds can furnish very decent amounts of pin-money.

SECRET OF MENDING

Here lies the whole art and mystery of successful mending: Have the broken edges clean, be sure all the bits have been saved, know where each of them belongs before beginning work. Very tiny bits and splinters had better be cemented in place a day before the main work begins. If only one has all the pieces, by a little dact pains the most hopeless wreck may be made to look as good as new.

A COMFORTABLE LOUNGING ROBE 6884.

THE loose, comfortable gown which slips on easily and requires no elaborate fastening to close it, is an invaluable possession in the feminine wardrobe. Such an one is shown and made in a washable silk or Japanese cloth, with broad sleeves, and a full and becoming. The broad sailor collar and loose flowing sleeves suggest freedom from restraint and are quite in keeping with the purpose of the garment. For use as a bathrobe or negligee it is invaluable. For the medium size, 7 yards of 36-inch material are needed.

No. 6884—6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

A USEFUL ACCESSORY. 6938.
The woman who prefers to wear lingerie waists the year around—and she is to be found in all latitudes nowadays—knows by personal experience the value of a lining slip for wearing under the waist on unusually cool days. In most cases, too, she prefers either to make such accessories herself, or else to have them made under her own personal supervision, for those purchased ready-made are unpleasantly prone to be anything but a perfect fit. The lining illustrated may be used for the purpose indicated or as a lining for a full waist, and in either case will be a boon to the home dressmaker. It may be made in round or pointed effect at waist-line, and in high, round or square neck, with a choice of two styles of sleeves. The medium size calls for 2½ yards of 27-inch material.

No. 6938—9 sizes, from 32 to 48.

Patterns will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents by Marjorie Dane, 48 West Thirty-fourth street, New York City.

To avoid delay, do not fail to state size of pattern desired, and be sure to write name and address plainly.

BROTH SOUPS

Oil of rosemary..... 1 ounce.
Oil of almonds..... 3 ounces.
Oil of mace..... .35 drops.

If your hair is very oily, apply the following lotion nightly:

Bay rum, 2 quarts; alcohol, 1 pint; water, 1 pint; tincture of cantharides, 1 ounce; carbolic of ammonia, ½ ounce; carbonate of potash, 1 ounce. Dissolve the two carbonates in the water; mix the remainder of the ingredients together thoroughly, and then add the dissolved carbonates. Shake thoroughly and pour the mixture into what is known as a drop-stopper bottle. Then you can part the hair and drop the lotion on a very little at a time, massaging it into the scalp. Allow the liquid to dry in the scalp, and once a week, if the hair is very oily, shampoo, using the following mixture:

Yolk of one egg, 1 pint of rain water (lukewarm), 1 ounce of rosemary spirits.

Use half the shampoo mixture the first time, rinse thoroughly, apply the second half of the mixture and rinse until the water runs off absolutely clear. Dry in sunlight and do not dress the hair or even braid it, until it is absolutely dry and free from all odor.

If you have trouble keeping your hair in curl, dispense with hot irons and try kid curlers, separating the hair into rather small locks and moistening with the following lotion before putting on the curlers:

One ounce of gum arabic, ½ ounce of good moist sugar, ¼ pint of pure hot water. Dissolve this. When this solution is cold add 2 fluid ounces of alcohol, 6 grains of bichloride of mercury and 6 grains of salicylic acid. These last two should be dissolved in the alcohol before admixture. Lastly, add enough water to make the whole measure one pint, and perfume with any desired cologne. Apply to the hair and put up on kid curlers to dry.

HER AGE

THE late Senator Platt of Connecticut, an enjoyed funny stories and could tell a good many himself. Notwithstanding his long public life, he always remembered a yarn that he carried from his school days.

One year when the district schools opened in his town one of the teachers, in making a record of the ages of her pupils, as required by law, found that one little girl, who came from a family not noted for being especially bright, was unable to say when her birthday came.

So, in order to complete her records, the teacher walked two miles to see the girl's mother one afternoon after school. Asked if she could remember just when her daughter was born the woman thought for some little time, and then with a sort of puzzled look, said:

"Well, the gal was born in 'later time, that's sure, but I can't remember whether they was a plantin' on 'em or a diggin' on 'em."—Boston Herald.

DON'T buy a round, short feather box if you are small or stout. If you must wear a neck piece of this sort, select a perfectly flat stole which comes to the bottom of your dress and gives you height. Short stoles and boas cut off the figure and reduce height.

White broth forms the foundation for many nourishing soups known by the French cooks as potages. To prepare this, place in a large kettle three pounds of veal bones as well as any scraps of raw poultry you may have at hand. Add five gallons of cold water, bring to a boil and skim off every particle of scum. Add four small carrots, two small turnips, two peeled onions, one parsley root, three leeks and two stalks of celery. None of these vegetables should be cut up. Cover the kettle and stew gently for four hours. Strain through hair sieve or cheese-cloth, and set away for future use in a stone or enameled jar.

An economical combination with this broth is as follows: Heat two tablespoons of melted butter in a saucepan and add two Spanish onions, sliced thin, two leeks and one crushed bean of garlic; brown gently for twenty minutes, stirring occasionally; then add two tablespoons of flour and stir constantly for five minutes. Add two quarts of white broth, season with salt and pepper and boil gently for three-quarters of an hour. Add two ounces of Parmesan cheese, grated, beat two eggs to a froth, add them to the simmering soup, stir while cooking two minutes longer, and pour into a soup tureen over hot, square slices of toasted bread.

One reason why the average American family balks at the daily plate of soup is carelessness in its preparation. Good soup takes time and much clever flavoring. But the rewards in economy and nourishment are great.

REPAIR KIT

EVERY housewife who mends her small, will be better off for possessing this kit of tools: Lane's mender, tack-hammer, patch, hand-saw—fine, rather than coarse—screw-driver, monkey wrench, pliers and assortment of bits, pliers, wire cutters, gimlets in three sizes, foot-stitch square, small plane, small trowel, putty-knife, and two or three brad-nails.

In addition, it pays to keep always on hand wire nails, assorted sizes, screws from half an inch to two inches, light bolts and nuts, screw eyes, screw hooks—these are best of brass—picture hooks, picture wire, sand-paper, putty, plaster of Paris, Spanish whiting, brad-nails, rivets, a soldering iron, and a pot of oil. Ten dollars at the outside, carefully expended, will supply everything mentioned.

Charles Reade and Ellen Terry

DID you know that Charles Reade was a manager as well as a writer, and that it was he who persuaded Ellen Terry to return to the stage after she had given it up for good, and that if she had not gone back at this time it would have been Kate and not Ellen who would have been the Terry of the English stage? Ellen Terry went back to play the leading part in Charles Reade's "The Wandering Heir," which led to her playing Portia, the great part of her life.

All this, in a style whose charm proves that Ellen Terry writes as well as she acts, is told in her personal reminiscences now appearing in

32 Dainty Dressing About the House 32

"SNT she the daintiest, dearest thing?" said an enthusiastic admirer of a certain young woman who was flitting among her mother's guests, passing sandwiches and tea. Her frock was a simple affair of white barred muslin, but fresh as if it had just come from the laundry. Her hair was brushed until it shone like burnished gold. Her slippers were finished with smart little leather bows and trig black lisle stockings showed just at ankle. Inexpensive was her whole outfit, yet it radiated daintiness, as the young man has said.

But the serpent was in this modern Eden, for a small brother, not too small, however, to be most observing, gave vent to the snort peculiar to knickerbockers and the awkward age, and replied:

"Yep, but you ought to see her in the morning, when her hair ain't curled. Dad said the other morning if she didn't turn that old flowered wrapper, he would. Girls are queer. They dress so much sometimes, and so little others."

Of course it was very, very naughty of younger brother to thus betray the skeleton in the domestic closet, and incidentally do his sister harm in the eyes of her admirer, but then, who was really to blame?

The girl and her mother!

The mother probably had started out her domestic career all wrong by thinking that any old thing was good enough to wear at her housework. She never dressed up save when she was going out or company was coming in, and strangely enough that sort of a woman is always talking about how dreadfully overworked she is, and how she never has time to dress. The idea of having simple, washable and attractive dresses in which to do her work never entered her head. Working hours were not worthy of attractive frocks.

And so the daughter fell into the habit and did not put on her pretty school frocks until just time to leave the house or to go to the matinee. Or if she worked in an office or shop, she would lie around all day Sunday in a kimono, and dress just in time to go out in the evening.

The kimono and negligee have done much to make the American girl slovenly and unattractive. Often they are not really respectable, but are worn with a single safety-pin or branch at the throat, flying open to disclose skirts and other lingerie. A young man who collects for a piano firm was telling me the other day that the visions he had of untidy women in their own homes, women whom later he saw on the street, arrayed in all the glory of Solomon, made him wonder why men married at all, or why marrying, they ever remained within their own doors.

The kimono, or cotton crepe negligee, long or short, with heel-less slippers to match, is meant for bedroom wear alone. It is not intended for wear at the breakfast table. And once a girl begins to wear a negligee or kimono to breakfast she is apt to appear also with her hair twisted carelessly atop her unbrushed head, or in a rough braid down her back. If she has slippers, she comes down with her shoes unbuttoned and unlaced.

She means to dress right after breakfast, but she does not. Instead, she straightens up the parlor with kimono flying and hair hanging and shoelaces tripping her up. She dawdles a bit at the piano and finally goes to the door to receive the mail at the hands of the postman. Oh, such feminine sights as the postman must see—and in nice looking houses, too!

And then she goes up to her room, makes her bed—and sits down to sew or read, thinking she will change to a house frock after she has rested a bit. But the lunch bell finds her still untidy, and it is midafternoon before she really dresses herself respectably.

Of course, the man who wants to marry her sees her only after she has discarded the kimono, after she has laced her shoes, after she has brushed her hair—and he does not dream that before the honeymoon is over such a vision of untidiness will greet him at the breakfast table, because the girl is bound to slip back into her untidy ways after the first pleasure of wearing the trousseau frocks is over.

It does not take long in the morning to slip on a house dress or neatly-fitted wrapper, instead of the loose, flowing kimono. No girl will wear unlaced shoes or run-down slippers with a pretty house frock. Moreover, she will not be able to endure the sight of an untidy head with a clean frock—and so the mission of the dainty house-frock is fulfilled.

Just try this method, girls. Give some thought to the dress you wear before your brothers and fathers at the breakfast table, and then your small brothers will have no reason for disbelieving family skeletons to admirers whose admiration is really justified.

FOR LITTLE FOLK

IT was a wise mother who said: "I try to give my children just enough clothes every season to wear out well." With a succession of olive plants through which garments can descend as they are outgrown. It may be worth while to spend much time and strength on them, but most commonly such spending is a waste. Plain clothes, well shaped, clean and in full supply, are worth all the dainty that ever fluttered to the torment of little hearts and the discomfort of big ones.

It is positive and unspeakable cruelty to swathe a new-born baby in things stiff with tucks and embroidery. A baby's skin all over is more delicate than that of a grown-up eye-lid. The eyelid is the test for an infant's wardrobe; whatever hurts, or is even unpleasant to it, ought to be thrown aside. Even the softest stuffs are sold with more or less dressing in them. They should be well shrunken in boiling water before making up, and then, after making thoroughly, laundered without a trace of starch. Further, they ought to be ironed with warm, not hot, irons, as the hot ones give a sort of crackly surface. Make the first few clothes as simply as possible. No elaborate trimming that is to be worn out, and which will be a source of trouble to the mother and child.

Almost the same may be said of underclothes. Lawns, muslins, elastic, and all the better for sucking before making up. Flannel need not be wet but should not be kept new-born skin shirts coming wet down around the hips can be knitted loosely on the steel needles from the softest white wool.

For children of larger growth the most that can be said is that the essential points are simplicity, symmetry and freedom to develop their growing bodies. Frocks with tight belts have robbed childhood of joyous centuries. They ought to be forbidden by special enactment, as it should be further forbidden to put a mourning garment upon a little child.

THE THREE KINDS OF HEMS

HEMS are of three sorts—simple, ornamental, and unadorned. The simple hem, which is held forward, then runs it up into the loose edge of the hem, down it, and repeat all the way, taking care never to vary the number of threads in the knots.

A ruffle, a towel napkin, sheet, or anything similar, ought to be torn or preferably cut by a thread. This, of course, does not apply to bias frills of silk or stuff. Fine ruffles of lawn, linen, cambric, or muslin, should have a thread drawn, and be cut with very sharp scissors, over and over the breadth as neatly as possible, then begin at one end and make a tiny roll at the upper edge, manipulating the cloth between the right finger and thumb. With the very finest needle and No. 100 thread, sew down the little roll with even very short stitches. If the hem is to be trimmed, as with a narrow edging, taffeta or beading, it should be trimmed close to the edge, leaving one edge a quarter of an inch apart. Now fasten the thread in the top of the hem with a tiny buttoned stitch. Then sew two rows of stitching, one on the left hand and one on the right, with the hemming-stitch, sewing the ruffle upon the cloth and well within the roll. To ornament, simply draw the thread from the roll forward so the points on the ruffle will be drawn down.

A hem, like the new edge of a dress, should first be sewn properly, and is pressed a third time even with the edge of the hem. By sewing through the two edges, as in over-sewing, it is possible to take very neat stitches without pricking the fingers in the least. If hem-stitch is undertaken, threads should be drawn not merely for cutting, but for both creases. After the hem is creased the right depth, draw three or five threads exactly even with it. Begin at one end, gather

TO POSTPONE A DINNER

WHEN conditions arise to prevent the giving of a dinner for which much time has been issued, the hostess may find it expedient to postpone it by special delivery through the post, or by written notice, canceling or postponing the engagement. The friends of the person can be used to the postponement expressed in a brief note.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher King postponed a dinner that a sudden and severe illness in their family necessitated the indefinite postponement of their dinner arranged for the 12th inst.

Because of recent damage to their home by fire, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher King postponed their dinner, arranged for Monday, the twelfth, to Thursday, the fifteenth, on which day they hope to have the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Collins's company at the dinner.

DID YOU KNOW
There is a correspondence school in New York City which teaches girls and women to make stylish hats and to know all the principles of millinery? This school has graduated many girls who have been successful from the very start. If any of our readers would like to know more about the work, etc., they can receive an interesting booklet and full particulars by writing to Katherine C. Keene, 437 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

THE guimpe effects are always popular for little girls. This one is novel in treatment and adapted to a variety of materials. As shown it is made of cashmere. The waist closes in the back and the front fulness is gathered into a narrow yoke. Prettily shaped shoulder straps are fastened to front and back by large pearl buttons. Cashmere, challis, albatross linen and pique are all suitable. For a girl of 8 years 2½ yards of 36-inch material will be required for the dress and 1½ yards for the guimpe.

Girls' Guimpe Dress No. 5691. Sizes for 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

Simple little dresses in yoke effect and having a full blouse waist are exceedingly well liked for the growing girl. The illustration shows a development in red and black check. The yoke and cuffs are made of plain red material trimmed with black soutache braid put on in a fanciful design. Most of the seasons materials are appropriate such as challis, cashmere, albatross linen and gingham. For a girl of twelve years 4½ yards of material 36 inches wide will be required.

Girls' Dress No. 5671. Sizes for 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

The box-pleated dress illustrated is particularly becoming to the childish figure as the bertha and sleeve caps tend to give breadth to the shoulders. A fitted lining and full length bishop sleeves are included. The upper part of the dress is in round outline and permits the wearing of different guimpes. Scotch plaid gingham was chosen for the making but any of the fancy checks would be suitable also wool batiste, nun's-veiling, cashmere, challis and pongee. For a child of 8 years 4½ yards of 36-inch material will be required.

Girls' Box-Pleated Dress. No. 5670. Sizes for 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

The frock shown in checked gingham is cut somewhat on the princess order. A body lining is included and provision is made for full length bishop sleeves. A feature is the large collar of white pique, trimmed with a bias band of the checked material. The turned back cuffs and belt are of pique. Silk, cotton and woolen fabrics are suitable. For a girl of seven years 3½ yards of material 36 inches wide will be required.

Girls' Pleated Frock No. 5670. Sizes for 3, 5, 7 and 9 years.
